The cast of "Finian's Rainbow" and their junior high faculty directors tasted the satisfactions of acclaim both loud and long following the final performance in Sunset Auditorium last Saturday.

Photographer George T.C. Smith recorded that moment for many a scrapbook, as the entire dual cast took bows and exchanged felicitations.

CVPOA Meets Next Wednesday

Because a large public turnout is expected for next Wednesday's board of directors meeting of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, it will be held at the Community Center rather than Carmelo School, where it was previously scheduled.

The meeting, set for 8:00 p.m. will take place in the evening of the same day that interested property owners and planning commission members will tour the site of Alcan Pacific Corporation's latest proposed development (see accompanying story.) Latest details of both the Alcan and the P.G.&E. applications are on the April 22 evening agenda.

Lou Gardner, a member of the CVPOA board who is also chairman of the road committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will present the recommendations of the board of directors of the Chamber regarding the routing of Carmel Valley Road in the Village area.

"This will be only a preliminary discussion," said Col. Brown of the Chamber's road report. "We know that it is a sensitive and controversial problem and we do not intend to rush off and make up our minds in a single evening."

Public Affairs Intern Arrived Yesterday

The public affairs intern from Coro Foundation who will spend the next 6 weeks making an incorporation feasibility report for Carmel Valley was scheduled to arrive here yesterday.

Plans were that Tom Hefling was to greet the young man on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and escort him to Rippling River Ranch, where headmaster Jack Cowan of

Chamber Directors Adopt Road Plan

The board of directors of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce last week voted to adopt recommendations of the report from its six-man Road Committee regarding the route of a four-lane Carmel Valley Road through the Carmel Valley Village area. The Chamber also voted to present the report, along with a one-man minority report by Robert Kvenild, to the board of directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association before taking further action. Sober discussion prevailed throughout the meeting.

"When we get as far as the Planning Commission, there should be one report coming out of Carmel Valley," Gardner told his fellow directors of the Chamber. "We want to co-operate with the property owners. They have indicated they want to co-operate with us. It won't be easy, but we must try to work this thing out."

"We knew five years ago that this problem would have to come out. None of us wanted to tackle it. Being on this committee is not the way to win friends and is all too likely to alienate people," he continued ruefully. "None of us enjoys the prospect of telling a friend or neighbor we think the road should go where his business or home is."

In a thoughtful report of about 1250 words, the committee composed of Gardner, Kvenild, Al Fry, Byington Ford, Jack Uzzell and Tom Hefling made the following recommendation:

Beginning about halfway between Panetta Road and Laurel Drive, Carmel Valley Road should become a four-lane limited access road going north behind the Valley Lodge and crossing Ford Road just above the Tularcitos Elementary School. Then the four-lane road would progress east along the south side of the airport property its entire length, crossing Poppy Road and would return to Carmel Valley Road just west of Valle the Cowan School has offered him a 3-room apartment throughout his stay -- complete with telephone. Silberstein was to have been housed consecutively by various motel owners in Carmel Valley, but Cowan spontaneously offered the apartment at last week's Chamber meeting, pointing out that it would save the intern the inconvenience of repeated moves.

Vista.

Although each of the five committee members who voted for this plan had a slightly variant idea of where the road should go, they agreed on this single recommendation as coming the closest to the thought of the group as a whole.

All of the six members attended every one of a series of six study meetings, sometimes in consultation with visiting experts such as Road Commissioner Bruce McClain. As representative of the CVPOA, John Sigourney sat in at five of the meetings. Chamber president Rex White and Planning Commissioner Ed Marcucci also attended all six meetings.

CAMPBELL

With only slight variations, the Chamber's recommended route is one of four selected by James Campbell, planning consultant retained jointly by the County and the CVPOA last year. While offering three alternates (one of which is close to the route which the Chamber favors), Campbell specifically recommended a elongated traffic circulation loop around the heart of the Village, leaving the existing Carmel Valley Road as a village road access to business and service establishments within the loop.

Kvenild's minority recommendation is similar to another of Campbell's alternatives: that the road should depart to the south near Pilot Road, meeting Village Drive where it angles to the east, following Village Drive to its easterly terminus, going along the southern boundary of Marion Wilson's White Oaks property, crossing Robles Del Rio Road, cutting the corner of the walnut orchard and rejoining the present Carmel Valley Road at about the northwest corner of the Cowan School.

CAN SEE MAPS

For readers who are both hopelessly confused and desperately interested, a copy of the Chamber report and of James Campbell's final report, with rough maps, may be studied at the Outlook office.

Alcan Tour Next Wednesday

Members of the Monterey County Planning Commission will meet with officials of Alcan Pacific and any interested residents on Wednesday, April 22, at 2:00 p.m. at the corner of CV Road and Via Petra for an inspection tour of the 329 acres of wooded hills to the north where Alcan proposes to build 329 residential units on 44 acres of plateau.

The tour is definitely open to the public, according to a Planning Commission spokesman. Col. George A. Brown, president of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, largest of the four POA's which have gone on record against the development, asks for a large turnout.

"There seems no better way to impress the Planning Commission with the interest of our residents than their physical presence," said he.

Col. Brown said that he believed the tour would help underscore the need for clarification of policy, on the part of the Planning Commission, "of the relationship of population density to slope classification. . . We shouldn't have to go to bat en masse like this with every application that comes along," he said. "We hope for a clear cut policy to guide future decisions."

(For some rather startling figures on the subject, as related to the CV Master Plan, see editorial report, "How Dense Should We Be?" on page 2 of this issue.)

"We are not just a bunch of reactionaries opposing growth," Brown stated. "We all know that growth will come. Our concern is that it be orderly."

Col. Brown also wished to thank residents for their response to his membership plea of recent weeks. "We have had more than 50 additional memberships come in, and more arriving every day."

Lastly, he wished to remind Valleyites to mark their calendars for April 28, when Plancom will consider both the Alcan and P.G.&E. applications.

Tryouts For "Valley Vaudeville"

Can you saw a woman in half? Is there a sword-swallower in the house? Pull a rabbit out of a hat? Where are those trained animal acts? Horses that spell, dancing dogs, boxing bears -- flea circus, anyone?

The call is out for script writers, tunesmiths, gag men, entertainers of all kinds -- young hopefuls to retired professionals -- from all over Carmel Valley, Highway One to Jamesburg.

Tryouts, by open audition and interview, will be held on Saturday and Sunday, April 25 and 26, 2:00 p.m. at the Tantamount Theatre on Middle Canyon Road. Telephone 659-2405 for private interview.

"Valley Varieties and Vaudeville" -- a big community entertainment for fun and charity -- aims for an early summer champagne opening and one gala week of performances.

Sponsor will be the Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club and proceeds will go to replenish its treasury, which is continually expended on a variety of good works.

So it's open season on talent, no license required. Dance teams: ballet, buck and wing, soft shoe and off to Buffalo. Singers, yodelers, bird-imitating whistlers? Maybe even a fan dancer or two?

Who knows, at this point? The great talent hunt is on! Under the direction of master impresarios Ralph Geddis and Francois Martin of CV's famed Tantamount Theatre, the production promises to be a ball for everybody, on both sides of the footlights!

Finian's Rainbow a "Stunner"

So long as our junior high school students can participate in and behold, with such pleasure on both sides of the footlights, a production of the calibre of "Finian's Rainbow," those of us who love the theatre could stop worrying that it is becoming a dying art. May we give our young people many more opportunities of this sort!

With "Finian's", we suspect that Miss Diana Hardy, drama coach at the junior high, has done more for the future of the theatre on the Monterey Peninsula than any other single event hereabouts that we can remember or envision.

For students 12 to 15 years of age to attempt a full-scale production (not watered-down, not a cut version) of a Broadway musical at first sounded not only overly-ambitious but something of a tour de force. How wrong we were!

Quite obviously a tremendous amount of not merely work but devoted enthusiasm went into every aspect of the production -- and paid off handsomely. It sparked! The pace would put some of the Peninsula's adult theatre groups to shame, and so would the subtlety of some of the characterizations. Both singing and dancing were a delight.

Miss Hardy and her earnest cast and crew proved conclusively that young people are capable of tremendous sustained effort and excellent artistic achievement -- given appropriate leadership and incentive.

Although the large audiences for the six performances in the Sunset School auditorium were not composed entirely of parents, classmates, and siblings by any means, there were a great many more young faces in the audience than one is accustomed to seeing. They adored it, and were not merely polite but vocally appreciative, delivering round after round of accolades following the performance.

How many of the youngsters were seeing a full-size Broadway-style production for the first time in their lives? Interestingly, we heard from many sources that a great many youngsters in the audience, following their first attendance, insisted on returning and How Dense Shall We Be?

An Editorial Report

BY DOROTHY REED

"One acre minimum per dwelling site" has been both creed and rallying-cry for Valley citizens since 1955, when the Valley Master Plan became the guide to development and land use. The formula seems simple; one home, one acre. For individual families choosing a homesite, it is a little more expensive than a smaller lot would be, but the peace and privacy seem well worth it.

To a subdivider, however, with a large piece of acreage to develop, each homesite more or less is a matter of vital financial concern. He would like 110 acres to equal 110 homesites -- possibly with an allowance for roads, which, according to the Master Plan, eat up 20% of the space in a subdivision.

To assume that any parcel of 110 -- or 210 -- or 310 acres -- is entitled to an equivalent number of building sites is to assume, essentially, that all acres are equally developable. But this is an assumption that the CV Master Plan most explicitly does not make! To quote the Master Plan:

"The area of greatest growth is in the flatter terrain... it is reasonably safe to assume that future population growth will be concentrated on land of 0 to 30% grade with the greatest percentage of expansion on 0 to 10% grade."

Outdated Concept

Times have changed since 1955 when the CV Master Plan said that building sites of 30% to 50% grade were considered "fair to poor" and expected to furnish only 6% of the eventual total dwellings in the Valley; slopes above 50% were called "not desirable" and were projected to furnish 0% of the dwellings.

This projection is not enforceable, however; no zoning exists which would put teeth in it. There is nothing in the present ordinance to prevent every single acre being developed -- a glance at any current architectural magazine will prove the possibility.

Increasingly featured are examples of dwellings which look like a combination of Victorian corsetry and modern corrective dentistry, cantilevered onto the sheer faces of "unusable" sites. These are seldom subdivisions, however. Generally, the expense of access, water provision, drainage, etc., make these eyries one-of-a-kind, non-speculative showplaces rather than profit-making enterprises.

Conceivably, a subdivider could now criss-cross the steepest hill with one-acre lot lines and perch a steel-and-glass eagle's nest on each acre. But this would be too expensive. The first subdivider who thought of applying the "cluster" principle to steeply graded land

What Are 'Clusters'?

"Cluster" subdivisions group together into small neighborhoods the number of houses allowed by the total acreage in the subdivision (less 20% for roads) and combine the remaining area into a communal greenbelt. Thus a hundred-acre parcel might contain 80 houses clustered together on 20 acres; the rest of the land in the subdivision being permanently set aside for playgrounds, hiking trails, or whatever other else the subdivider might feel appropriate for the particular greenbelt.

and claims the right to develop as many homesites as it can scrounge up acres in exchange for dedicating to future green space, not "prime building land" but the far "less desirable" hillsides.

To take an example, a 200-acre parcel full of cliffs and canyons, with 30 acres of relatively flat land, according to the intent of the Master Plan would furnish perhaps 40 -- at most 50 -- homesites. However, if the cluster principle is applied, and the 30 flat acres are chopped into 80 homesites (with the due allowance for roads) the density which the Master Plan projects for this particular acreage would be tripled.

Growth Greater Than Projected

Population studies based on the rate of growth between 1955 and 1959 led to the prediction of roughly 20,000 persons in the Valley by 1980. Elsewhere on this page, however, are figures indicating that the rate of growth in the four years from 1959 to 1963 was well ahead of the projection.

The Master Plan says: "It should be emphasized that the rapid growth of this area... makes it imperative that this plan be periodically reviewed..." Perhaps the

How Many People In CV Now?

The Valley Master plan estimated a 37.8% increase in population over the 4-year period from 1955 to 1959. The same percentage increase would assume a population in 1963 of 4,746. The County Planning Commission, however, using a house count, found a total of 5,140 people in July of 1963, an increase of 50% over the 1959 figure.

This raises another question: Should this growth be interpreted as forecasting another 50% jump in the next four years, or will the rate itself continue to accelerate?

Clusters Can Pose A Problem

When the first "cluster" development was proposed for the Valley, its handsomeness of design aroused enthusiasm, but many people saw danger in the precedent. But carried too far, the cluster principle could subvert the intent of the one-acre building site provision.

The Master Plan simply did not envisage the kind of "cluster" development which finds a small flat area in the midst of steep hills

Not Just A Rumor Richfield Gas Station Planned

W. H. Malpas, real estate representative for Richfield Oil Corporation, in a telephone interview from San Jose last week, confirmed a rumor that had been circulating in Carmel Valley Village.

Malpas told the Outlook that his company has indeed applied to the County Planning Commission to build a service station at the corner of Carmel Valley Road and El Caminito, across the street from Uzzell's Texaco Station.

When the Richfield representative was told that people in the Village were saying that the four existing gas stations within a few hundred yards of each other would more than adequately serve local needs for some time to come, he replied, "We have several hundred credit card customers in Carmel Valley and have had requests to build a station there. The nearest Richfield station is in Carmel. We considered building in another part of the Valley but decided that the Village was as good as anywhere."

The corner where the new station would stand is now occupied by Wilma's Beauty Salon and Sugar 'n' Spice. The building is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Merle Gesselman. Mrs. Gesselman (Wilma), recalling that she has operated the Beauty Salon in their building for 16 1/2 years, says she plans to retire, although Mr. Gesselman will continue in his occupation as a welder.

"The Valley has been very good to us," Mrs. Gesselman stated. We came here 17 years ago with almost nothing. The Village, too, was almost nothing. By Ford was just putting up the building that is now the General Store... Now we have a nice home -- and a beautiful patio. I look forward to spending a quiet summer on that.

Mrs. Lory Swiss, co-owner of Sugar 'n' Spice, says that she expects construction to begin very soon on new quarters for the children's clothing store. Francis Palms, A.I.A. has already drawn the plans and contractor Mel Mark has been selected to build the new store on commercial property owned by Mrs. Marion Wilson, adjoining the White Oaks Coffee Shop.

Perrine Production

Tularcitos, Carmelo Open Houses

"Little Cat Tail Review," directed by Gene Perrine, will be one of the features at Tularcitos School's Open House next Thursday, April 23, at 7:45 p.m. This musical program will feature children of nearly all grade levels in songs, piano duet and some dance. At its close, parents and public are invited to visit all classrooms, the school library, and the Art Room.

Carmelo School will hold its annual Open House at 8:00 the previous evening, Wednesday, April 22. All rooms will be open for the public to view displays and samples of student work.

Mr. William Mallek, principal of both these elementary schools in Carmel Valley, reminds all that there is a perennial "Open Door Policy" in our schools, with teachers and students pleased and proud to have parents and interested citizens view their activities during all classroom hours. Visits during the coming week are especially stressed only because April 20-24 has been set aside nationally as Public Schools week.

Mr. Mallek especially wishes to encourage daytime visits as "an opportunity to see the normal program in operation".

Like baseball? Follow the Giants? Then you'll want to listen to a daily (except Sunday) program at 5:05 p.m. on Radio KRML (1410). Al Dark, the Giants' manager, will answer questions about baseball in general, his ball team and his job as manager. Want to win two free tickets, prime seats, for a Giants' game? Then think up "The Question of the Week" .. enter it at any of the following places: Kent of Carmel (Lincoln & Sixth); the Music Box, Carmel Rancho Union Service, Brinton's Hardware and Anderson Liquors, all in the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center. If your question is judged best, off you go to see the Giants play!

Time to consider what you have from last year - what to get new - for the jolly barbecue season. Need a charcoal container? Here's a beauty, at a price! Black plastic bucket with lid. "CHARCOAL" in rustic style white lettering. Inside it is not only a charcoal lighter and fluid, but a big bag of Vermiculite - that's the stuff you put in the bottom of your barbecue to make the charcoal last longer. 3.98 for this kit. Tiki torches for lighting yard or patio come in finest quality heavy black metal, have wick and snuff top, are priced at 6.95. Party tongs for making those tiny sandwiches are a new gimmick - you can, in fact, make four tiny sandwiches at once, perfect for patio cocktail hour. 3.00

Warming thought:

Nowadays it costs you less for heat because your PG & E rates have gone down

Nearly everything has gone up in price these days... except your PG&E rates. They have gone down lately. As a matter of fact, the typical PG&E household customer pays less today than 30 years ago for the same amount of gas and electricity. But count the things around your home that gas and electricity are doing for you and your family today. You are using 3 times as much as they did 30 years ago. So naturally, though the unit price is lower, your bill is bigger. Any way you look at it, you live better for less because PG&E service is a bigger bargain than ever.

Boys 13 - 15 May Play In New "Prep League"

BY MARTHA HUFF

The former Carmel Pony League has been reincorporated this year as the "Carmel Prep League" and will be composed of four teams from Carmel, one from the Naval Postgraduate School, and one Carmel Valley Team -- the Broncos. All boys in the Carmel school district who are 13, 14 or 15 years old are eligible to play.

Games will be played on the recently completed diamond at Carmel Junior High School starting around the middle of May.

Tryouts for the Valley team will be at Carmelo School on Saturdays at 9:00 a. m. and Tuesdays at 4:00 p. m. for the next two weeks. All boys who are interested in playing on the Valley team, take note.

Last year the spirited Carmel Valley Broncos beat the previously undefeated Carmel Dodgers for their first win and went on to beat their arch-rivals, the Navy.

Last year's coaches were Navy lieutenants, Joe Coleman, Russ Rose, Bob Meglio, and Pete Banks -- a Carmel Valley resident who, in addition to coaching, furnished most of the transportation up and down the Valley for the team members. The sponsor for the last two years has been Howard Lockwood, lower Valley resident.

This year the coaches will be Lt. Joe Coleman, a baseball player of considerable ability who has been given tryouts by the Major League Los Angeles Angels, and Lt. Sol Acquilino and Lt. Greg Watson, both of whom have played on college baseball teams.

WOMEN VOTERS

A detailed survey of land use and conservation measures projected for the Valley by the new Monterey Peninsula Area General Plan was undertaken Friday morning by the CV Unit of the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Joseph Wythe of Monterey led the discussion and summarized the plan's provisions and proposals.

Carmel Valley LWV members will be hostesses at the next general meeting of the League, to be held this Thursday at 12:15 at the Monterey Youth Center. All year, members have served as official observers at the various legislative and advisory commissions and boards on the Peninsula, and the official reports of these observers will be the program of the general meeting.

Under the Oaks and Among the Cactus

by Mildred Hattan

Miss Gene Nicholson of Sacramento is sharing her Valley visit this week as the houseguest of Bessie Irvin of Village Drive and Ann Hurd of Country Club Drive.

At the annual spring meeting of the Monterey County Cattlemen's Association held last week at the King City Fairgrounds, Bob Wilson of Carmel Valley was re-elected to serve an additional one-year term as a director of the organization.

Much happiness in their new home to Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Biggs! They left this week after saying goodbye to the many friends that they had made during their nine-year Valley residency. They have purchased a home in the Seven Oaks Section of Rancho Bernardo, a retirement community near San Diego, and are looking forward to the inviting golf course and climate. Their home at 141 El Caminito Road has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Vladimir Francetic of Capistrano Beach.

Five and a half year old Billy Neidinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Neidinger of Paso Cresta, became a real hero in the eyes of his Kindergarten classmates. Billy was awarded a phonograph album by a Salinas television station children's program, "The Webster Webfoot Show" for his safety slogan that dealt with the perils of jumping on bunk beds.

Close your eyes, think PINK, and you'll have the perfect setting for Jana Deck's ninth birthday party held last week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Keane of 66 Poppy Road. Little ballerinas in pink tutus carried the theme from the invitations right through the pink ice cream and birthday cake. Jana's friends attending (in pink dresses) were: Terry Hendrix, Heather Golden, Karen Stone, Regina Howland, Trish Gardiner, Molly O'Neal, Kim Baker, Helena Bresk, Nancy Walker, and Enid Rauber.

Silver dollars in change are just one of those little touches at Will's Fargo that customers have come to look forward to. With the nation's silver dollar shortage, we heard a rumor that Will Fay was searching for a substitute for the old cartwheels. Following weeks of research, we happily present a solution: Bozeman, Montana, faced with the same problem, is now gluing half dollars together! Silver dollars you want, silver dollars you get!

Among the 80,000 residents evacuated from the Mexican resort city of Mazatlan last week in what may have been one of the most spectacular false alarms on record were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Muller of Via Milpitas. Hearing that earthquakes and tidal waves were causing untold damage in Alaska and 1,000 miles up the California coast, Mexican authorities ordered the area cleared. The alarm was sounded at 4:30 a.m. but cancelled at 5:30 when the tidal wave failed to materialize. The Mullers (and 79,998 others) returned to Mazatlan in time for breakfast.

June seems a long time away to very happy first time grandparents Louise and Tony Steliga, who are eager for a glimpse of Tony, III. He arrived on April 4, weighing 8 lbs. The new arrival's parents, Tony, Jr., and Sue, are stationed in San Diego where Tony is attached to Navy destroyer USS Roger. The threesome will be coming to the Valley on leave in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Howard with children Jan and Mark, have moved from 100 Ford Road to a new home and a frozen food business venture in Los Altos. The popular family, active in Horsemen's Association, Parents Club, Fire Department, etc., leave vacancies that will be hard to fill.

Ann, daughter of Cdr. and Mrs. Robert E. Meyer celebrated her seventh birthday with what was described as "a traditional birthday party with lots of balloons, lots of games, and lots of ice cream and cake!" Ann's guest, Paula Meyers won ALL of the prizes for all of the contests. Others attending were: Kay and Debbie Booth, Linda Tedrow, Kathy Baker, Jean Ann Jones, Mary Ray, Anita Bresk, Melody Thompson, Blanca Zarazua, and Marian Doud.

FIRST AID

Members of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department made a medical emergency trip to the Community Hospital with Mrs. Grace Ida Keetch, 3929 W. Ridge Ave., West Vancouver, B.C. at 11:38 a.m. on April 3.

Bishop Kip School

Designs are nearing completion for a 12-classroom school building complex and headmaster's residence to be located on the south side of CV Road, a short distance west of Schulte Road, according to Wallace Holm, architect for the Bishop Kip School building committee. The school facilities which will be used as an Episcopal Day School will contain a chapel and multipurpose room, library, kindergarten, and administrative quarters. After approval by the vestry of All Saints' parish in Carmel, sponsors of the school, plans will go to the Lower Valley Advisory Committee and ultimately to the County Planning Commission which exercises design control. A use permit for the seven-acre site was issued two weeks ago.

Construction is scheduled to begin as soon as possible, with a target date in September for use of the classrooms.

Youth Movies Need Adult Help

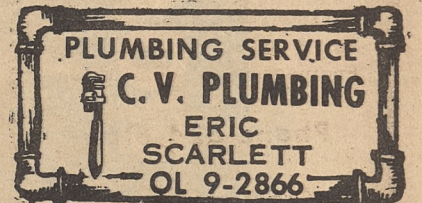

Adult volunteers are needed to help teenagers supervise Saturday afternoon movies for children at the Community Center, Mrs. Earle Wilsey reports.

The movies are shown from 1-3 p.m. and again at 3-5 p.m. Mrs. Wilsey says many small children are in the audiences and this means supervision is necessary in case of emergency. She stresses that there are no discipline problems at the movies.

Any parent who is willing to spend two hours assisting the teenagers in their weekly project to raise funds for the Community Center swimming pool is asked to telephone her at OL 9-4294.

Forest Theater...

Unusable And Unsafe

BY MARJORY LLOYD

The Forest Theater, once a center of community life, has deteriorated to the point where it is no longer usable and safe, the Carmel Arts Commission informed the city council in a written report last week.

Commissioners recommended that the city spend $12,350 next year to restore and operate the municipal theater... or they want nothing to do with it.

Furthermore, the council should decide on some other use for the wooded, hillside property... and take steps to implement this use... if the outdoor stage, understage theater, electrical equipment and grounds are not restored, the report advised.

Forest Theater Sundays

For the past several summers, the arts commission has presented free events on the Forest Theater outdoor stage on Sunday afternoons. These included the annual visit of the Stuart Highlanders Bagpipe Band, symphony and band concerts, also vocal, instrumental and dance recitals.

The commission has also been responsible for the use of the outdoor stage and Theater-in-the-Ground under the stage by various organizations.

If the Forest Theater is not made usable, future efforts of the commission must necessarily be directed towards other cultural objectives, and the commission wants to be relieved from responsibility for, and connection with, the theater, the report added.

Founded in 1909

In the fall of 1909, Herbert Heron had the idea of an outdoor theater for Carmel. He got the Carmel Development Company to set aside land for this purpose on Mountain View Avenue and founded the Forest Theater Society. This group put on its first play in the summer of 1910.

Every summer for the next 25 years Carmelites acted, sang, danced and helped stage Forest Theater productions. They were a focus of community life and attracted nationwide attention.

San Francisco drama critics were lyrical about the beauty of the outdoor theater amid towering pines and spreading oaks. Performances were lauded as major California cultural events.

Given To City

Then came the Depression. The Forest Theater Society found it was financially unable to pay taxes and deeded the theater property to the city in 1937.

The city, aided by the WPA, repaired and rebuilt the facilities.

There were no performances until 1940 when Mr. Heron re-opened the theater with "Macbeth."

Then came World War II and the theater was closed for the duration.

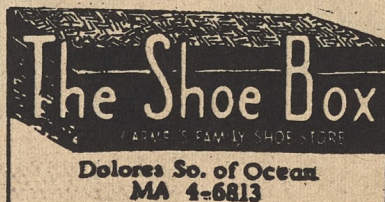

Following the war, the Forest Theater was reopened. Most recently it has been used for children's plays under the Carmel Unified School District summer recreation program.

Repair Costs

Last week the arts commission proposed allocating the following funds in the city's 1964-65 budget:

Restoration of the Theater-in-the-Ground, $4,500; refinishing outdoor stage, $200; repair and replacement of stage lighting, $2,000; exterior lighting, $750; repair of benches and grounds, $1,000; two additional acoustical shell sections, $350. Total, $8,800.

In addition, the commission presented estimates for annual maintenance, operation and performances if the Forest Theater is repaired. They were, per year: theater manager, $500; equipment operator, $200; piano rental, $50; advertising, posters, etc., $150; program and production, $250; two symphony concerts, $1,450; six puppet performances, $300; utilities, $150, building and grounds maintenance, $500. Total $3,450.

One night last week smoke billowed out of the post office... fire engines clanged up... firemen hooked hoses to hydrants and rushed inside... a ladder was run up to the roof.

"Get out of the way!" someone shouted to me as I stood teetering and terrified on my illegal spikes. I almost took off my shoes and ran.

Then I noticed that those hoses didn't seem to be spurting water. It was Thursday night!

I posted my letter as soon as one of the most realistic drills of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department permitted.

That was a lot of smoke for no fire Chief Smith. How did you do it?

Saturday I had another surprise. Life in Carmel is never dull!

Resting from the excitement of pre-election week, I snoozed on River Beach. Shouts and the pounding of running feet awakened me. "Must be a tidal wave," I thought and looked out to sea... right into the left eye of a WHALE.

We stared at one another and both shook our heads. The whale dove down with a fine flaunting of flukes.

I stood up and found I was in the midst of about 30 persons. More were rushing towards us from all along the beach.

The whale reared up again. It appeared to be standing on its tail just beyond the surf line. This was repeated a third time between a swimming and blowing exhibition. Finally the whale dove for the last time. I wonder what he told all the other whales about us.

There is a bright-eyed ground squirrel that lives in the cliff below Jean Arthur's house. He's sleek and charming. Picnickers delight in throwing him delicious morsels.

But what do you think I saw! Mrs. Thomas Tonkin left her picnic basket unguarded one sunny day last week. Bright eyes scampered towards it, scanned the beach from right to left, then jumped inside to munch goodies. I shooed him back to the ice plant.

Now there are two moochers to watch on this part of the beach. Sandy the Seagull has been raiding this territory for a long time.

Fire and Police Special Schooling

Members of Carmel's police and fire departments will be taking special training next week in order better to protect citizens.

Police Captain William H. Ellis, next Wednesday through Saturday, will be at the 11th annual conference and training institute of the California Check Investigators Association in Squaw Valley garnering information to combat bad check crimes in Carmel. These have been on the increase in the past few years but are still amazingly few considering the number of tourists, Captain Ellis reports.

The same three days, Fire Chief Robert E. Smith and Merle Murphy, volunteer fireman and member of the Red Cross ambulance crew, will be taking advanced training in emergency care of the sick and injured at all-day sessions sponsored by the University of California at the Army Reserve

Center in Los Angeles.

They will be accompanied south by another fireman, Lee B. McGuckin. He will attend a fire prevention course conducted by the City of Los Angeles. During the same three-day period.

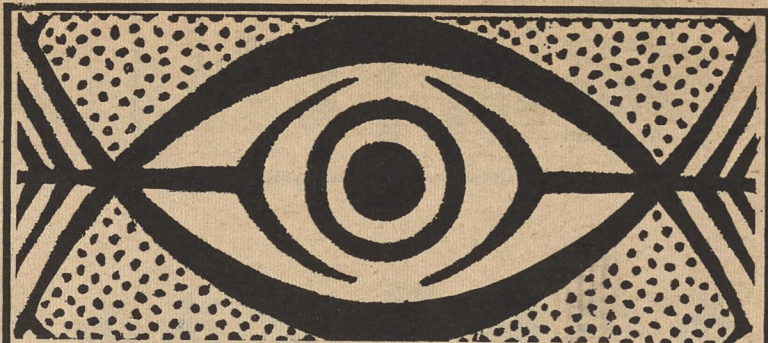

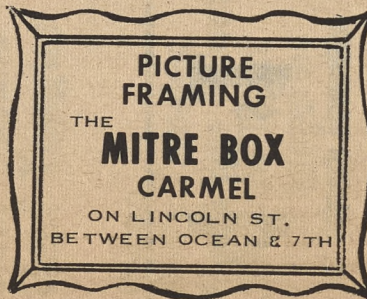

New Electrical Code

Romex wiring will be permitted in residential district construction this coming July if action initiated by the council proceeds according to schedule.

Last week, the council adopted the report recommended that the city adopt the 1962 national electrical code.

The council instructed the city attorney to draft an ordinance in accordance with the above recommendation. This ordinance should receive first reading at the May council meeting; second reading and a doption in June. Thirty days after adoption an ordinance becomes law.

Citizens who worked on the electrical code committee were Edward Neroda, chairman, James R. Belvail, Barney Laiolo, Steven H. Sassoon and Gilbert Neill. The council instructed the city clerk to send letters of commen-

HERE FROM JAPAN

Visiting Mrs. Florence Stewart of Carmel Point until the end of this month are her son-in-law and daughter, Rear Admiral and Mrs. George R. Luker.

Admiral Luker has been stationed in Japan for the past year. He and Mrs. Luker will return to Tokyo for a two-year tour of duty when they leave here.

This summer their daughter, Anne, who is living in San Francisco and teaching in Mill Valley, will visit her parents in Japan.

The Lukers' son, Ned, will complete two years with the Peace Corps next month. He is serving in the Philippines on the Island of Mindinao.

PASSPORTS ARRIVE

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Criley and their sons, Teddy and Donnie, have their passports and have taken all the recommended "shots" in preparation for a trip abroad.

They will leave Carmel on May 15, spend a week in the East, then sail on a ship bound for Portugal, Tangiers and Italy. After a month in the latter country, Mr. Criley will come home. Mrs. Criley and the boys will continue their travels with the boys' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Criley of Claremont, and tour the islands of Greece. Mrs. Criley also hopes to visit relatives in Switzerland.

While the Crileys are in Europe, their daughter, Megan, will stay in Baltimore, Maryland, with her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Michael Criley, until her father brings her West to visit her great-aunt, Mrs. Russell Williams, for the rest of the time her mother is away.

In Naples, the Crileys will see Mrs. Williams' daughter, Honey, who has been at school in Italy this year.

IN VALLEY HOME

After years of dreaming while stationed all over the United States and the Far East, Captain and Mrs. F. M. Lansdowne are carrying out plans they have made for their permanent home in La Rancheria.

Captain Lansdowne retired from active duty with the U. S. Navy on February 1. Since then he and his wife have been traveling in Europe. They are now living on their Valley land and expect a visit from their son, Zachary, this summer. He is a junior at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Lansdowne is the daughter of Mrs. Fenton Grigsby of Carmel. A talented artist, she is a member of the Carmel Art Association. Recently she has been executing a series of commissioned "pencil paintings" of U. S. Government buildings in Washington, D. C. These are reproduced as etchings.

The Lansdownes bought their La Rancheria property 21 years ago and had the distinction of being the first buyers of land in this area.

FIRST CHILD

Mr. and Mrs. Anastacio E. Esmeralda have a son who was born at the Community Hospital on March 27. They have named their first child Martin Anthony. His birth weight was six pounds, nine ounces. Martin's father is a member of the kitchen staff at La Playa Hotel.

STUDIO PARTY

A large group of friends accepted the invitation of Miss Mary Lindsay-Oliver to attend a party at her studio home, Wildwood, on April 5. On exhibit were two commissioned portraits recently completed by Miss Oliver. One oil study was of Frank Break, the young grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Tostevin; the other was of Robert Renk, son of Mrs. Lois Renk.

Among those at the preview were Betty Palmer, Mrs. L. J. Fletcher, Mrs. Loveera Thias, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Trapkus, Mrs. Les Krumholz, Alma Anderson, Mrs. Renk, Dr. Arlene B. Schlott, June Braucht, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ferrante, Mrs. Claire Frances Gray, Eleanor Catron, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Adams of Vancouver, British Columbia, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Herron, Judge and Mrs. Eugene Harrah, Mary Louise Waterbury, Jeanie Morgan Klenke and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lausten.

Carolyn Boyce and Ora Fallis presided over the punch bowl and refreshment table.

McBRIDES HERE

Mrs. Viola Russ McBride of Fennell arrived last week to spend several days in her Carmel home. With her were her son, Bill, and his wife, Carolyn. The young McBrides gave glowing reports of their ten-months-old son, Bill, Jr., to whom they returned on Monday.

HOME FOR WEEKEND

Kate Williams flew home from Phoenix, Arizona, on Friday to spend the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Williams. This was the first time Kate had seen her parents' new home since its completion.

WAYFARER REVIEW

The third and final book review of a series by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray will be given at 7:30 p. m. Friday at the Church of the Wayfarer.

Dr. Gray will review Walter Kerr's "The Decline of Pleasure". Following the book review there will be a social hour. Hosts and hostesses will be Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Scheldrup, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parkhurst, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond K. Houston and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Barker.

L'ALLIANCE FRANCAISE

Mr. L. W. Klene, chairman of L'Alliance Francaise music committee, has arranged for a program of opera arias to be presented by the Monterey Peninsula Opera Workshop under the direction of Nancy Ness Bowman on Friday evening, 8 p. m., in All Saints' parish hall.

Edgar Bissantz Tells Rotarians of Europe

The vast quantities of money and material aid which America is pouring into other countries are not returning us the gratitude and support we seek overseas, according to world traveler Edgar Bissantz.

Speaking to the Carmel Rotary Club last week in the La Playa Hotel, the former Carmel Valley resident described his ninth and most recent trip to Europe, a ten-month tour which took him to Switzerland, France, Spain, Portugal and Morocco.

S.F. Fire Watch Group Meets In CV This Year

The San Francisco Fire Watch, a group of eye witnesses and survivors of the stupendous disaster which struck the city on April 18, 1906, meets annually on the date to re-live and re-tell the experience -- this year will meet in Carmel Valley at the Tantamount Theatre. Marshalled by Senator E. H. Tickle of Carmel, the old timers will gather for a special matinee showing of the film, "San Francisco", starring Clark Gable, Jeannette McDonald, and Spencer Tracy, directed by W. S. van Dyke.

Made in 1936, the film pictures Barbary Coast days and re-creates the earthquake and fire with "special effects."

The matinee on the 18th is clocked for 2:30. The public is invited to join the Fire Watch at usual Tantamount prices of $1, for the matinee as well as for the showings Friday and Saturday nights at 8:40. Also as usual, coffee on the house during intermission in the Green Room or the outdoor lobby midst the overhanging oaks.

Playday Winners

Cindy Young and Fred Nason tied as High Point Winners in the age 12 and under class at the CV Trail & Saddle Club's Play Day last Sunday -- the first Play Day of seven in a summer series for juniors.

Tied for High Points in the 13 to 18 year old class were Ann Warmington and Jay Hagar.

Completely sold out was the hot dog stand at the club grounds, where juniors Diane and Bill Klech spent a warm but public-spirited day assisting their mother, Mrs. William Klech, in the operation.

Nearly 40 young people entered their mounts in the show. George Duckworth, foreman of Rancho De Los Derechos and a retired cavalryman, acted as judge.

The next Play Day will be May 3, and will comprise new and different events. Meantime, Glenn Young will coach practice sessions each Saturday at the club grounds at 1:00 p.m.

Joe Hitchcock Remembers:

Earthquakes, Old and New

saw the like of it. And the Bay seemed to moan all day long, a sort of continuous moaning; it did sound very wierd.

Now, during the earthquake in Alaska, my son Vernon, his wife, and their daughter were all there. The quake was on a Friday and I didn't know what had become of them until I got an airmail letter. He wrote it that Sunday and I got it Tuesday. What happened? My son and his wife were in the office of Mac's Auto Service in Anchorage. The building sank 30 feet into the ground. She went out the back door and he broke a plate glass window to get out the front. Their daughter was coming down the street to meet them and she was carried 30 feet into the ground. But they managed to get out and none of them had a serious injury.

The recent earthquake in Alaska reminded me of the one in San Francisco in 1906. On the Peninsula of Monterey there was not much damage outside of what happened at the old Hotel Del Monte.

A newly married couple from Flagstaff, Arizona were spending their honeymoon there. It was their second night in the hotel. An unhappy co-incidence, they had spent their first night in a different room, but the hotel changed them to another room for the next night.

In those days the Hotel Del Monte was all heated by open fireplaces. When the earthquake came, one of those fireplaces fell right across the bed and carried this young couple down to the next floor. The groom was killed outright and his bride died at the Presidio of Monterey on the following Friday.

It seemed as if the Valleys, with their alluvial soil, suffer more than areas on good solid rock. In Salinas there was quite a bit of damage and also in Hollister. The fronts of the stores all fell out onto the street.

At Agnews insane asylum there were 300 patients killed in the hospital and 700 more of them running wild in the willows. It took a Sheriff's posse to round them up and bring them in. There happened to be a doctor who was a patient there -- as crazy as a loon, but during the taking care of the wounded he got right in and helped the medical staff and was just as sane as ever was. But as soon as everything was settled, he went right off -- wild again.

The earthquake was on Wednesday. Down here all the word we got was that everything north of San Francisco was under water.

My brother, James Hitchcock was then attending Heald's business college in San Francisco. He and a friend were in the thick of it. They walked out of the city with their suitcases, finally got a train as far as Gilroy, then a bus there used to be as far as San Juan.

They and some other people then hired a surrey to come to Monterey. By then it was 2:00 a.m. Friday morning, and that was the first real word of it that we on the Peninsula received.

A few green chimneys fell in Monterey, but there was no great injury here. But the earthquake kept on all day long. Monterey Bay put on a purple hue -- I never

PLAY BALL

Thirty six of our members have chartered a bus and will attend the afternoon ball game between the Giants and St. Louis tomorrow.

MONTHLY PARTY

Approximately 120 members enjoyed our monthly "dime a dip" potluck supper and "Birthday Night" last Monday. Following the usual serving of the large cake those with April birthdays, Bernice Skowran, chairman of music, teamed with organist Fred Lewis in an organ-piano duet of popular songs as a background for community singing. Our newer members were introduced and joined in the festivities.

NEW RESIDENTS

The following are new residents: Mrs. Ella Jensen, H. Gilman Smith, Lillian C. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Hal C. Wright, Mrs. Margaret G. McCarthy, Mrs. Abby Drew Goodale, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Kasch, and Dr. and Mrs. Milton A. Broemser.

GO FOR A GOPHER

Bill Brown, one of our most industrious members, has introduced a new activity which he calls "Go for a Gopher."

So far he has trapped 50 of them by his method. He maintains that it does no good to pour water in their holes or use poison bait, and that cyanide gas is too dangerous to the average user.

His method is to use the common gopher trap, BUT to use TWO traps, back to back in their runways, fastened to the ground. In this manner he gets a gopher going or coming!

Bill now proposes a contest among members and the winner will receive a full length gopher skin coat. Second prize will be a stole made of -- well, yes.

The Pethericks' two cats are working like crazy to prove their way is best. So far they have caught 65 mice and gophers since coming to Hacienda Carmel.

ANN HURD RETURNS

Miss Ann Hurd of Country Club Drive returned recently from a trip to Southern California. Diversions included her first tour of Disneyland, stopovers at Hearst Castle and Solvang, and visits to friends in Orange and Los Angeles Counties as well as to her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J.P. Medaris, in Palm Springs.

CARMEL JUNIOR HIGH

Yearbook at CJHS

BY STEVE MEADOWS

It has been announced, that Jay Graham is the new editor of the yearly CJHS yearbook. Jay came to speak to the Student Council last Thursday on this subject. He explained that candids and wills were desperately needed from the ninth grade, and baby pictures or candids were needed from any of the other grades as well. He explained that the book would have 72 pages and would probably be a soft cover yearbook.

The Yearbook Staff will not use ads or any other form of advertisement as a source of income. Instead, they will obtain money for the book from bake sales, student store or some other such method. There are about eight students working steadily on the yearbook. The other classes put in their work on the school paper the "Junior High-Lights", but help is welcomed from these people also. The book will probably cost $2.00 and they will be purchased ahead of time, to pay for the printing and binding, etc.

Other members of the yearbook staff are Ken Roberson and Doug Borregaard doing boy's sports, Vicki Bell doing girl's sports, Adriann Ricupero with the art work, Jim Sweeney, Gary Padgham and Twig Stephenson handling pictures of the 8th, 7th, and 9th grades respectively, and Mr. Broadman and Cliff Branch on the photography work.

ENGAGED COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holland of Carmel Valley have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betsy, to Mark Moore of Santa Cruz. The young people plan to be married next February, when Mark completes his electronics studies at Monterey Peninsula

College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Coleman of Santa Cruz.

Betsy, who is employed at Raggett's in Carmel, formerly attended the college also and met Mark last Halloween, when both were students there.

MPVS Plans Garden Tour

BY MRS. J. ARTHUR WEEKS

Mrs. Charles H. Conley of Carmel Valley deferred to Mrs. R. W. Scheffler, Chairman of the 13th Annual Garden Tour to be presented by Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services on July 15th, for the presentation of reports by Committee Chairman. Mrs. Conley is Project Administrator, serving on the Board of Directors in that capacity for the year. Miss Peg Bowen has been acting as Advisor to the Advertising Sales Committee of which Mrs. Esther Williams is Chairman, and among the workers of that committee is Mrs. Frank Lang.

In conducting the regular membership meeting at the U.S.O., on Friday, April 3rd, Mrs. Charles M. Jett, President, offered a vote of thanks to the workers at the Thrift Shop in Seaside for the month, sorting, tagging and pricing merchandise for the shop. Net profits from the shop during the month of April will be given to the Children's Home Society and both organizations are collecting and selling in a concentrated effort to alleviate the increasing pressure and demands upon the services of the Children's Home Society in the community.

A total of $2,655 was approved for donations by the membership. $900.00 will be given to the Monterey Council for Mentally Retarded to be used to cover the cost of three scholarships at Gateway Center for the period of one year. $1,775.00 was approved as a donation to cover scholarships for the Monterey Council for Gifted Students.

Mrs. L. K. Purcell reported on descriptions being prepared with the assistance of Mrs. Gregory Hughes for the Garden Tour Brochure.

Guest Minister At Community Church

Guest minister at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula on Sunday, April 19, is the Rev. Wallace D. Moore. Mr. Moore is a candidate for the position of minister of the Church in June, when the Interim Minister, Dr. Ronald J. Menmuir, leaves for a year's travelling.

Mr. Moore has been pastor of a church in Indiana, and at present is associate pastor of a large church in Midland, Michigan, where one of his responsibilities is directing the youth program.

REVIEW OF FINIAN'S

saw two or three performances.

We repeat: we hope that our young people will be given more such opportunities to participate, on both sides of the footlights, and not in the usual saccharine "juvenile" fare which, like the "Dick and Jane" readers, is less apt to sharpen young appetites for learning than to blunt them.

We are not going to single out any of the dozens of young performers for special notice; we haven't the space to do them all justice and they have already had the true satisfaction of knowing that they did an excellent job. --BB time has come to do this -- to set a density figure for the valley that will maintain its attractiveness as a place to live, and then take all possible steps to preclude more intensive development.

Sixty Thousand People?

Without additional provisions, the one-acre minimum alone will not hold the line. If 20,000 persons were to be considered an optimal population, these people, distributed on the average in families of 3.2 persons each, would need 6,250 homes, using up 6,250 acres of land.

The Master Plan covers, however, 24,350 acres. If every one of these were considered an eligible homesite, even allowing generously for roads and other non-residential uses, the Valley's area could accommodate, at one home per acre, not 20,000 but 60,000 persons!

Two fifths of the Valley's area is on a slope of 30% or more. A hillside ordinance which required a larger area for building in proportion to the steepness of the slope, might be worth investigating. The Peninsula Area Master Plan, whose population projections reflect the Valley Master Plan, will soon be presented to the Board of Supervisors for adoption. Before this happens, Valley residents may wish to review their own plan so as not to freeze into the larger design concepts which are already out of date.
